Preschool Kookaburras

Our Preschool Kookaburras have been learning about our environment and how to take care of it.

We planted lettuce, tomato and carrot seeds. We learnt that seeds need soil, water, sunlight and time to grow. So we watered our seeds, put them on the veranda in the sunshine and then we waited. And we waited, and we waited!

This growing takes a while!

So while we waited for our seeds to sprout we took care of our back yard. We watered the plants, pulled out weeds and even turned the soil to prepare the ground for new beautiful flowering plants. We read LOTS of books about seeds and plants. We also drew and cut out pictures of different plants and vegetables.

After 2 weeks our seeds had finally sprouted. By the next week they had grown into seedlings. We decided that we would make a special present for our dads for Father’s Day. We decorated pots and put a lettuce and a tomato seedling in the pot. Now our dads have a salad in a pot!

Well, when they grow!
